A Cherished Tradition

Edo Kiriko is a traditional Japanese cut glass art that originated in Edo (now Tokyo) during the late Edo period (1834). It involves intricate, hand-carved patterns on colored glass, creating stunning designs with deep historical and cultural significance.

Edo Kiriko-江戸切子

The Timeless Elegance and Craftsmanship of Traditional Japanese Cut Glass Art

Recently, Edo Kiriko sake cups gained attention in the MLB world when Roki Sasaki, the highly acclaimed Japanese pitcher now with the Los Angeles Dodgers, gifted Edo Kiriko sake cups to teammate Miguel Rojas. The thoughtful gift showcased Sasaki's appreciation for Japanese tradition while strengthening team bonds through cultural exchange. The gesture highlighted the global appreciation of traditional Japanese craftsmanship.
